

Invitation to Attend Scientific Writing Workshop

ABOUT THIS EVENT

The Bushfire CRC is proud to host a "Scientific Writing Workshop" to be held at our offices in East Melbourne on Tuesday 3rd August 2010. This is a 1 day workshop covering successful science writing.

The course will cover (but is not limited to):-

- Where to start when writing documents
- Creating effective documents (including scientific papers)
- Choosing an appropriate journal for article submission
- Following journals' instructions for authors

This workshop will be highly interactive, involving a mix of presentations, group discussion and exercises. Participants will be provided with comprehensive notes for the course. These workshops have won wide acclaim in the science communication community, and among government agencies, research and academic institutions, and non-government organizations.

ABOUT THE TRAINER

Dr Kate Hawkins—Kate has over 20 years experience in project and business management, scientific research, writing, editing and training. Kate is an Accredited Editor (AE) in Australia (Institute of Professional Editors) and teaches editing at RMIT. With a PhD in Materials Science, plus research and business development experience with the CSIRO and universities, as well as Certificate IV in Workplace Training and Assessment, she puts technical topics into everyday language. Kate has edited scientific journals for CSIRO and Wiley Publishing and is in demand to write and edit reports, books and websites on business and entrepreneurship, policy, environment, agriculture, health and medicine, the physical sciences and engineering.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This workshop is suitable for anyone who is looking to write research outcomes for publication. It is appropriate for students, post-docs and agency staff who have been active in research.
